Vets Team Is Facing Trouble

The Andover Vets baseball team is having a tough time financially.

Hal Wennik told the Townsman this week that the Andover team is the only one in the North East League that is not paying its expenses and he questioned how long the team can continue under these conditions.

Sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the team defeated a fast Newburyport team Monday night, 2-1, at the Playstead. Friday they will meet the Haverhill Red Sox in a game under lights in Haverhill stadium. And Sunday the team will host the League-leading Manchester Red Sox at a 4:30 event at the Playstead.

Total expenses for each game approach $30 - $12 for umpires, $12 for baseballs, at least $3 for a bat and $1 for boys to chafe

Some means of controlling the town's growth is being sought by official town boards, which Tuesday night were told of preliminary plans for 3-500 houses in the west Andover section.

Called by the Planning Board, the joint meeting discussed details of the plans, but failed to come up with concrete suggestions of ways to control the growth.

Planning Board member Walter Tomlinson urged "control by co-operation" of the builders, after town agencies decide at what rate of speed the area should be developed.

Broken down into areas, there are 168 new homes shown on a preliminary plan of the Wild Rose Farm area, owned by Harry Axelrod. He assured the meeting that his normal pace is 30 houses a year, even at times of peak demand. Building might be slower under present economic conditions, he suggested.

Judge Alfred Sartorelli, who originally asked for the meeting, was not present. But the Planning Board said his Realty Construction Co. has plans for 200 houses in the area between Lovejoy and Dascomb rds., plus some across Dascomb rd.

Herbert Rines is also contemplating a development in the Dascomb

Elm Farms To Build Center

Elm Farms - a 40-store grocery chain - plans to build a shopping center on 13 acres of the Schlott property on No. Main st.

Representatives of the firm, appearing before the Planning Board Tuesday night, posed legal questions for town counsel relating to interpretations of the new shopping center by-law adopted at town meeting.

Foremost in their minds is the doubt that the Schlott property actually comes under the by-law at all. Pointing to various sections of the law, the representatives suggested it applies to other areas, where boundaries have actually been changed to create a shopping center in a residential

Arnold Seeks GOP Nomination

Mason F. Arnold, 105 Elm st., has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Representative, Fifth Essex District.

Party nominations will be held in the primary next fall and election is held in November.

Arnold, a member of the Board of Public Works, is a native of Pawtucket, R.I. and was educated in public schools there. He attended New Hampton School and the University of New Hampshire.

A well-known automobile dealer, Arnold operates his own business on Elm st. He is a member of the Andover Service Club and has been active in fund raising efforts for the Lawrence General Hospital. He is a member of the Antique Automobile Club in this area.

Married to the former Anne Louise Twitchell of Wakefield, the family includes five sons.

Arnold, in addition to his automobile experience, served as personnel manager of Owens Corning Fiberglass Co. in Connecticut and also worked in an administrative capacity for the Ciniflex Corp. in New York.

The Fifth Essex District, from which he seeks nomination, includes Andover, Methuen, No. Andover and Ward One of Lawrence. A triple district, it is now served by Frank S. Giles of Methuen.

Ambulance Crew Gets Compliment

Two Andover firefighters were highly complimented in a letter received recently by Chief Henry Hilton.

Clark Otis and Alfred Desrosier, on ambulance duty, were cited for their friendly and helpful action. The letter, from George P. Johnson, follows:

"May I commend the crew (two firefighters, I think there were) on your beautiful, red ambulance last Thursday (June 12) afternoon?"

"Shortly after five o'clock that afternoon, I was most unfortunately involved in an accident on Route 128, in Waltham, when I stupidly crashed into a stopped car. Your ambulance came along a few minutes after the accident, and the driver of it pulled off the highway onto the grass dividing-strip and asked if he could be of any assistance. By the grace of God, we did not need their help, even though my 86-year old mother had been tossed off the seat, had hit her forehead on the windshield, and, for a short while, was in a state of shock.

"Will you please express my appreciation to these two firefighters? Their willingness to help was certainly 'above and beyond the call of duty', since they were entirely outside the jurisdiction of the Town of Andover. They are a credit to your Department."

William James Dean, 30 Robandy rd., received his Bachelor of Arts Degree from Princeton University at recent commencement exercises.

Essay Contest For Day Camp

The YWCA, serving all of Greater Lawrence, is currently sponsoring an essay contest for girls on the subject of why she would like to attend the "Y" Day Camp. Award for the prize winner will be two weeks at the YWCA Camp on Captains Pond, tuition free.

No youngster should be at any loss for sound reasons along these lines since a day camp experience would offer her opportunity to receive instruction in swimming, crafts, nature, Indian-lore, dramatics, hiking, sports and stunts, and ample opportunity to make friends and have fun. For further stimulus, young writers may wish to obtain a folder which outlines the day camp program. These are available at the YWCA and readily obtainable by phoning or writing the "Y".

Any girl between the ages of 10 and 13, or if she is nine and has completed the fourth grade, is eligible to enter the contest. Essays are not to exceed 250 words, though contestants may use less to state their reasons for desiring to attend the YWCA Day Camp. Deadline is Wednesday, June 25, and all entries must be submitted on or before that date complete with name, age, address and telephone number of the contestant. The winner will have her choice of attending the second (July 14-25), or the third, (July 28-Aug. 8) camping period.

Director of the day camp is Mrs. Evelyn Retelle of Andover. Mrs. Retelle, in conjunction with an able staff of counselors, will serve as judges for the essay contest.

Mrs. Glenn Divert, 361 No. Main st. had as a recent guest, her sister-in-law, Mrs. Marjorie William of Los Angeles.

Woman's Union Entertained Guild For The Blind

The Woman's Union of the West Church entertained the Carvell Chapter of the Blind last Wednesday in the Vestry of the Church. It was the 10th Anniversary of the Chapter and the eighth time the group has been entertained by the Woman's Union.

A delicious luncheon was served by the ladies, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Lawrence Thomas. A large handsomely decorated cake was cut by the Rev. Clinton Carvell. The Rev. Hugh B. Penney led the devotions which followed the luncheon. Mrs. William Foster, Secretary of the Chapter, gave a historical review. Mrs. Helen Dooley led the singing and also favored with a solo. Mrs. James Romeyn of Melrose gave a fascinating talk. Miss Charlotte Nelson, State leader of the Guild for the Blind, gave a talk on the rapidly expanding work of the Guild and reported 3,000 members.

Top Assessment Is Over $2,000

Forty-eight property owners in Shawsheen Hylands are involved in the sewer betterment assessments, estimated by the Board of Public Works.

The lowest assessment on a tentative basis is $893, while the most to be paid is $2,097. The figures are estimated on the high side, according to Water Supt. Donald Bassett. This is done because the law will not allow an increase in the assessments once they are filed in the Registry of Deeds. But reductions can be made at a later date. Thus it is routine, he explained, to estimate the betterment assessments at a maximum, hoping there will be an opportunity to adjust them downwards later.

The Board signed a contract for the work Monday night, sending the document on to Town Counsel Vincent Stulgis for approval as to its form. The Susi and DeSantis Co. Inc. received the contract on a bid of $83,015.55.

Assessments are based on $5.23 per front foot and five cents a square foot for a depth of 100 feet.

The BPW also debated at considerable length the possibility of charging indirect betterments against the developer, who has eight lots on which he may build when the sewer is installed. Members, urged to take action by Mr. Bassett, discussed methods by which the assessment can be made but arrived at no conclusions. They felt, however, that any developer should pay some share of the over-all sewer cost, just as home owners are individually paying an assessment based on over-all cost. In years past, a developer put in his own sewer in the development, but did not pay to enter the town sewage system.

TOWNSMAN CLASSIFIED ADS BRING RESULTS

Not Responsible For Blinkers

The Board of Public Works has refused to take over maintenance of blinking lights on Shawsheen rd., at the site of the sunken section. The state suggested the town assume responsibility for maintaining the lights, because the Brox Construction Co. charges $1 daily for the service.

Board members felt the town should in no way assume any responsibility for the street. The state continued this week taking borings at the location, trying to determine what can be done to repair the road. It sunk shortly after the construction firm, following plans and specifications drawn by the state, finished reconstructing it.

The BPW also voted to retain a bill from the construction company until some word is received from the state as to its intentions.

During the discussion, Highway Supt. Stanley Chlebowski said the town always had put a tally man on Chapter 90 construction projects and suggested this be done again in the future. The man, it is explained, keeps track of all work and its cost so that the town can tell when the job has reached the limit set by an appropriation.

Accepting More Registrations

The Advisory Board of the Free Church Cooperative Pre-School wishes to announce that its two most recent projects, a Parents' Work Party and an Auction, have been enthusiastically received and wonderful results have been achieved. Much donated equipment has already been refurbished and, with the proceeds of the auction, other needed items will be purchased.

Parents will be particularly interested in knowing that standards recommended by both State and Town Boards of Health are being strictly adhered to. Dr. Audrey Bill, of the State Board of Health, and Mrs. Elizabeth Nadeau, Andover Public Health Nurse, have inspected the premises and grounds to be used at the Free Church.

A limited number of registrations will still be accepted and parents interested in having their children attend this school are urged to contact Mrs. Horace Seldon promptly.

Should Avoid Contamination

The problem of possible Fish Brook contamination, from a planned sub-division of the Wild Rose Farm, was brought to light Monday night at a meeting of the Board of Public Works.

Water Supt. Donald Bassett said the Board should call official attention to the plans for use of the brook sometime later for a water supply. Developer Harry Axelrod has preliminary plans before the Planning Board for well over 100 houses on the farm. The BPW, perusing the plans some time ago, made several suggestions as to streets. But Bassett felt that some assurance should be required that the stream running out of the farm, into Fish Brook, will not contaminate that potential source of drinking water. The farm area, when built up, will be served by septic tanks as no sewer line is available.

Bassett said the possibility of contamination should not be a detriment to development of the area, but care will be needed in seeing that proper septic tank disposal must be assured. The Board agreed to put this problem in writing for the Planning Board.

Will Tar Old Unaccepted Ways

The Board of Public Works appeared to concede, Monday night, that its annual tarring program should be carried out on old town streets that have not been officially accepted.

Supt. Stanley Chlebowski told the Board some of the streets due for the annual maintenance work are on a list of unaccepted streets. Many have been cared for by the town over the years, but were found to be legally "not accepted" about two years ago. A special act of the Legislature allowed the Selectmen to lay out and accept the streets.

Board member Francis Reilly wondered why this has not been done. "Why they wouldn't do it, I don't know," he commented.

Water Department Supt. Donald Bassett told the Board all the streets have to be legally described and placed on file before they are legally accepted.

There was, however, general agreement that the annual tarring should be carried out.

SEEK METHODS OF CONTROL

rd. area, the meeting was told, but there has been no plan available as yet.

General concern was felt over the expansion of facilities to meet the demands of so many new homes.

New Schools

Representing the School Committee, William A. Doherty said 160 houses would mean a new 18-room school, if there are four children to each home. He called attention to the expanding school population, which he said will mean that the new high school will be filled to capacity within a very few years. Addition of more youngsters to the system, he felt, will mean building a new high school and converting the present structure to junior high use.

"We have to face it," he told the meeting, "and we may have to do something about it quicker than we want to think about it."

Speaking for the Board of Health, Robert Walsh said he believes the Wild Rose Farm area can be developed without trouble, providing close attention is paid to the septic tank and leaching field installations by the developer and the town. A question of the possible contamination of Fish Brook, a future water supply, was also raised and it was suggested that this would not happen if proper care is used.

Water Available

Water Supt. Donald Bassett said the water report by Camp, Dresser and McKee shows using Fish Brook in 1965. And he predicted there would be ample water for the proposed developments, although a few distributional problems may arise. But Bassett said the report figured on growth in the area, plus the normal increase in water use by expanding industry in the town. He felt that the 1965 date would still be valid, unless there should be an influx of industry that demanded great quantities of water.

The problem of sewerage the west Andover area was discussed briefly. And there was general agreement that the town probably will not feel like voting extensive sums for trunk mains for many years.

The Board of Health was pointed out as the source of real authority, as that Board must approve all septic tank installations.

Area Disapproved

Exploring some of the anticipated costs, the meeting turned to Albert Cole Jr., chairman of the Land Acquisition Committee. He said a 30-acre site for a new school in the middle of the proposed area had been located, "but the Finance Committee wouldn't approve purchasing it". He said it is still available at a "reasonable" price. Study also has gone into locating a fire station somewhere in the section.

The Board members left no doubt of their concern over the potential growth and left little doubt that some type of control should be worked out.

At this time, the BPW has established a rule that only 50 percent of the houses in a development may be serviced with water in an 18 month period. But Bassett said there is plenty of precedent, if such a question reached the courts, to be reasonably certain that the town would be required to furnish the water within a year or two. Thus, he said, such a ruling is actually only good for a year or two in relation to controlling growth.

Donald C. MacMillan, 36 River st., Ballardvale, was graduated from Franklin Technical Institute Sunday, June 15, with the Degree of Associate in Mechanical Engineering Technology.

Mr. Axelrod suggested a study be made of the actual benefit derived from new homes. He said it is his belief that taxes paid on the new construction have been of material help in keeping the tax rate down. He urged that the study be made, as a means of settling the often-stated premise that new homes don't pay for themselves.

Supt. of Schools Edward I. Erickson noted that the average cost, per pupil, is $300 annually. The $130,000 returned to the town from the state for educational purposes is not figured in when arriving at this cost, he said. But the cost itself does not include interest on bond issues for school purposes.

John N. Cole, acting-chairman of the Planning Board, asked the various Boards to consider the possibility of control and urged them to suggest ways it might be accomplished.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

It Is A Tough Decision

There are several interesting ramifications of the plea from South School kindergarten parents to the School Committee that their youngsters be transported both ways.

Going beyond the immediate problem — which is serious enough to the parents concerned — it is obvious that the School Committee must make up its mind: either stick with a decision, once made, after consideration of the facts; or back off from that decision in the face of considerable parental pressure, without new facts being added which might change the picture.

This problem, in itself, is complicated. For one school of thought says it is the job of the School Committee or any other elected body to respond to the wishes of the electorate. Others claim it is their duty to make the decisions, as wisely as possible, then stick with them despite any concerted effort to have changes made. Thus the School Committee would appear to stand condemned by someone, no matter which decision it makes. In a third sense, those who advocate strict economy will certainly be critical if the purse strings are loosened.

In a completely different field, we are compelled to wonder how many of the parents present at the meeting last week also attended town meeting. How many spoke up for the School Committee budget?

We are not attempting to impugn anyone's motives. But it so often is true that economy is fine until it hits home. Then individuals who have urged it — either by public statement or by silent consent — suddenly see the significance of their position in a different light.

It is easy to be sympathetic with the parents' request. Their problems in transporting the youngsters one way, either from the morning session or to the afternoon one, are many. And the question of the justice in expecting some residents to transport their youngsters, while those in higher grades are publicly transported, is also debatable.

Thus it becomes difficult to appear to be against giving five-year-olds a ride. But this is a position the School Committee may occupy. We should remember that, if this is the case, it isn't because the members, as individuals, are not sympathetic. In this case, it will undoubtedly be because the money just isn't available.

And for that, town meeting can take credit.

Down the Years with The Townsman

50 Years Ago — June, 1908

The public schools closed today for the annual vacation.

A fire broke out on the railroad bridge on No. Main st. this afternoon at three o'clock, which was quickly extinguished by the Fire Department. The fire was caused by a spark from a passing engine.

One of the local boys to receive many honors at the Phillips Academy commencement was Carlton C. Kimball.

Robert Hill of Essex st. has gone to Halifax, Nova Scotia, for the summer months.

Beginning next week and continuing for an indefinite period, all grocery stores in the town will close every night except Saturday.

Miss Anna E. Chase, principal of the Stowe School, will sail early in July for a trip abroad. She will visit England and the Continent.

Next Sunday morning St. Matthews Lodge will attend services at the Baptist Church.

Story Hours At The Library

A series of story hours for boys and girls has been planned for the early part of the summer. Beginning June 23, on Monday morning, the first hour will be titled "Stories To Make You Laugh." Miss Margaret Lane, Children's librarian, has prepared a collection of stories that will be filled with chuckles, giggles and real laughter. Stories begin promptly at 10:15 and run until 11 o'clock. Boys and girls should plan to attend all in the series, which will run through July 28. Other themes of the stories will be stories in space, four-legged stories, stories of enchantment, from far away and stories near at hand. No tickets are required.

Puppet Classes Opening

All boys and girls, in grades 1 through 3, are invited to sign up for the first meeting of a puppet naming class, to be held at the Memorial Hall Library on Wednesday mornings, from 10:15 to 11:30 o'clock, from June 23 through July 28. This group will make stick puppets, and prepare and give a play using their puppets, either the story of Ferdinand the Bull, or the story of Snow White.

Grade 4-9 pupils are invited to register as soon as possible for the marionette making group, which will meet every Tuesday and Thursday morning, at the same hours, from June 24 — July 15.

Each group is limited to 18 young people. Anyone interested should ask for full details at the library.

Vacation Loans In Effect

Each summer the Memorial Hall Library extends a summer loan period privilege to its borrowers. Adults who wish may take any number of books with them for the summer, to become due Sept. 15. New books or books in special demand are not included in this summer loan, but all others are offered for leisurely summer reading.

Boys and girls are allowed to take six books each time, during the summer, instead of the usual four. If they wish, the six books may be stamped for the summer loan period, to become due in mid September. As always, if parents accompany boy or girl to the library, a larger number of books may be borrowed.

Borrowers are reminded that the new summer hours will require planning ahead for weekend reading, since both Children's room and main library will be closed Saturday until the end of August. It has been the policy to close at 1 o'clock in the adult library on Saturdays, in the summers past.

Mayor Buckley, who is president of the Massachusetts Mayors' Association, is married, the father of four sons and resides at 10 Mount Vernon st., Lawrence. He is a veteran of World War II, attaining the rank of Major during his six years service.

The "Good Old Days" Are Only A Memory

Were those really "The Good Old Days?"

When you worked 24-hour days, with one whole day off in six?

When the pay was $18 a week?

Fire Lt. Albert Cole philosophically shrugged "What could you do? You had to live and eat. At least you knew where the money was coming from every week."

This week, as he went into his 40th year with the Andover Fire Department, Cole reflected a little on the changes time has accomplished — not only in hours and wages, but in manpower and equipment.

For when Lt. Cole went to work for the town, June 9, 1919, there was one truck and a pair of horses.

The crew numbered four — three on, one rotating to cover days off. And the schedule? Five 24-hour days, then a full day off. And the pay? All of $18 weekly, but every week.

And that, Cole recalled, was a mighty important factor in those days. For when he went to work for the town, Tyer Rubber Co. was working four and sometimes three days a week — making it pretty tough to make ends meet.

"I was standing on the corner on one of those extra days off," he remembered, "when Capt. Lester H. Hilton asked me if I wanted to work for the department. I said sure and went to work."

Charles Hill was chief then and Capt. Hilton — the only permanent captain in the regular force then and since — was one of the full-time men John Collins and William Baker, with Cole added, brought the crew to four. Hilton, the father of present Chief H. Lester Hilton, later was appointed deputy chief. It was that same year, 1924, that Cole was appointed lieutenant.

The job wasn't quite so bad by that time, for the town had added four men and approved two shifts. The men worked two 10-hour days, followed by a 24-hour day. Then they had a day off.

Horses Still Used

Looking back on the early days of his career with the department, Cole remembered how the one remaining pair of horses was used for watering down the streets, or were harnessed to the dump trucks doing street work. And when the fire whistle blew, the drivers would hustle them back to the station to make the run. Sometimes they'd leave the dump cart where it stood and ride in bareback; sometimes they'd jettison their water cargo and race back, pulling the empty watering cart.

And occasionally, if the fire seemed to demand it, an extra pair of horses was quickly obtained from a neighboring stable, to pull one of the three-horse-drawn pieces of equipment.

The old steamer was one, Cole remembered how Ira Buxton, then a call man, would fire up the boiler as the steamer left the station and have 40 pounds pressure built up by the time the equipment was passing Tyer Rubber Co.

Buxton is the only man now living, with the exception of former Chief Hill, who worked on the department, as a call man or regular, when Cole first started there. Chiefs Emerson and Buchan, under whom he also worked, are both gone.

Took Their Lunch

Back in those early days, the department escaped one tiresome job it now must do.

Grass and brush fires were the responsibility of the tree warden, Cole explained. When one was reported, someone would locate the warden; he'd take a wagon and scout up a group of men to go firefighting. They'd all go home, get their lunches and take off.

"Sometimes they'd be out there days at a time", Cole commented. "We'd take their meals out and provide what help we could."

Small gallon and a half tanks were in use in those days, using water, soda and an acid. When there was water somewhere near, the men would keep on the run spraying the chemicals on the fire, scuttling back to the wagon to get more soda and acid, then to the water hole or well — possibly a hydrant — to fill up with water.

"They were all right on grass fires", Cole said, "but no good in the woods. There it was shovels and hand equipment."

Lauded for Work

As time went by, the department took over ambulance duty from the police department. And Cole was assigned to that detail for 12 years. The first ambulance was a Studebaker, he recalled. But that appeared to be considerable improvement over the Police Department's Ford beach wagon, which Cole said had jump seats that folded down to make room for a stretcher.

"Sure, I saw lots of accidents. Sometimes the people were injured, sometimes dead. But none of it bothered me too much. You can't let it bother you. It was the kids that were hard, hurt or sick and they couldn't tell you about it."

It was during this tour of duty on the ambulance detail that the following short news item appeared in a newspaper — date unknown: "Lieutenant Albert Cole of the Andover Fire Department has won much deserved praise by the manner in which he has handled accident cases while assigned to the town ambulance during the past seven years. He was one of the firemen who took the first aid course and his knowledge of what to do in an emergency has been invaluable and numerous occasions.

An outstanding example of that fact was furnished in a recent Shawshen Village automobile accident, when a Lawrence man received serious head cuts. Temporary treatment to staunch the flow of blood, given under Lt. Cole's directions, was so effective that it was heartily approved by the doctors upon arrival at one of the local hospitals. It was one of numerous cases when his ability has worked out to good advantage."

Fire Prevention

For the past 14 years, Lt. Cole has been assigned to fire prevention and inspections, working under the chief. He's the man who inspects oil burners, is called in to assure safe handling of dynamite, who inspects dwellings when there is a suspicious gas leak and assorted work of that nature.

During this time, he hasn't had to answer alarms so much. But in the days before that, he was in the midst of all the town's firefighting activity — whether it was a small blaze or a conflagration. Three stand out in his memory — the fire at the Smith and Dove Co. plant, when it was being used by a paint manufacturer; the Hardy Bruch Factory and the barn that stood where the bowling alleys are now on Park st.

Outranked by Sons

Maybe it's a good thing he doesn't have to answer alarms these days. For two of his sons, Albert Jr. and John are deputy fire chiefs, outranking their dad. Another son, Edward, didn't follow in the family footsteps and works in Lawrence.

Going back over the 39 years, from the days when firefighting methods and facilities were so different from today, Cole allowed that times were pretty rough. The work was backbreaking when it came to lugging shovels and hand tools into the woods to fight fire; and what we think of today as necessary equipment wasn't even thought of then.

"But it's all we had to work with — it's all anyone knew anything about", he stated. "We thought it was good, at the time and it was as good as anything anyone had."

"Ten years from now we'll probably have something different. But in the same way, what we have here is good now."

Although Cole is starting his 40th year on the department, he won't finish it. For the veteran firefighter will be 65 next January — the compulsory retirement age.

And when he retires, the department will lose both the only permanent lieutenant it has had and the man with the longest departmental service.

zone, whereas the Schlott property had been zoned industrial. They also mentioned the requirement for filing a site plan and explained that of the entire piece of property, Elm Farms only will use 13 acres. Thus a site plan for the whole area can't be filed. Yet the by-law they said, requires the Planning Board to approve a site plan of the area before work can start.

The men also mentioned that the area would revert to industrial in two years if no construction takes place. This would allow its use for a shopping center or some other enterprise within the definitions of industrial areas, "where we could do more than we can now".

It was suggested that the firm pose its questions in writing for town counsel, along with any opinions they might have.

Although an artist's drawing of the proposed center was shown, there was no mention of the specific number of stores planned in the area.

Parking Problem

Expressing their interest in co-operating in every way possible, the firm also asked that the parking requirement under the by-law be re-considered.

Elm Farms itself will occupy 20,000 square feet of space. And other stores will use a total of 66,000. On the ratio described in the law, the men stated, this would mean parking space for 960 cars. They wish to prepare an area for 450 cars, with the space available at the rear of the center for ample parking if the need arises.

The center will set back 400 feet from No. Main st., with parking between the road and the center. The area at the rear, much of it wet, swampy ground, would require much work if it is to be used, the men stated.

Questions of the size of signs at the center were also raised, with the idea that the Planning Board might use its discretion in allowing signs larger than prescribed in the by-law because of the set-back and needs of this particular center.

Want Quick Decision

Although no specific target date was set for construction, the firm appeared ready to move forward as soon as legal interpretations are received. The representatives asked if they might have the legal opinion by July 15, so they might move forward with their plans.

Asked whether the Schlott interests intend to develop their area, the Elm Farm men said plans were indefinite as far as they knew. Schlott, it appeared from the plan, has retained land on the Harding st. side of the property, while the Elm Farm center will be located on the town side of the river. The entrance will be on the Shawsheen side of the two buildings now fronting No. Main st., approximately where the sign now stands announcing the coming of such a center.

The artist's idea of the buildings, the firm representatives noted, is colonial, to fit in with the town.

On several occasions the men reaffirmed their interest in working closely with the responsible town boards and doing everything possible to cooperate.

But Wennik said Monday night's collection was $10.30 and, Wednesday of last week, $8.50 was donated. Thus the team operated at a $10 loss for just those two games. While some of the teams charge admission to the games, Wennik said, the smallest crowd witnessing a game in Manchester has been 1100, while that team has packed in 1850 to a night game. Here, he explained, attendance is small and the donations apparently run much less than the 50-cents charged elsewhere, based on the number of pennies found in the collection box. He called on residents to support the team so that it can continue playing in the League.

INSURANCE DID NOT COVER LIMB DAMAGE
The Board of Public Works has agreed to pay a $27 electrical bill for a Ballardvale resident, resulting from a disruption of house service. A limb being cut off a tree by the town tree crew broke the service. It was replaced by the Electric Co., the Board was told, but the property owner called in an electrician to check on the work. The bill was sent to the town. The Board was informed that there is no town insurance covering this type of accidental damage and thus voted to pay the bill from the tree department appropriation.

And it appearing to the Court upon the suggestion of the plaintiffs that the whereabouts of some of the defendants are unknown and they cannot actually be served with process, it is ORDERED that notice be given by publishing a copy of this order once each week for three successive weeks in the Andover Townsman, a newspaper published in said Andover, the last publication to be one month at least before the said first Monday of August next.

Seek Vandals Who Wrecked House

Police reported this week that vandals had entered and done considerable damage to a vacant home on River rd. belonging to a Mr. Maloney.

Sgt. William R. Hickey said it appeared that entrance was gained through a small, rear window, which was closed again by the vandals. The break was reported Sunday by Mr. Maloney but police were unable to determine when the vandalism occurred.

Paint was splashed around the interior, the radiators were torn from their fixtures, furniture was heaved around and the contents of drawers were spilled throughout the house. Several empty whiskey bottles were left behind.
